opponents, the gentle gentlemen from Nichols Homehealth, Inc., really put on a good show last evening. Thursday, Feb. 17, at the local high school gym. Naturally the girls used many unorthodox maneuvers to stymie the local gentility and the Reds Heads won by about 30 points, their good natural warm falsetto voices vibrating through the gym the entire game.

Not only is it not exciting to have such talented guests visit Chatsworth to entertain, but it is fun to see the local falsetto get out on the floor. The Nichols Homehealth team really gave it their all to add to the show. A salute to their patient wives who probably had to roll them very carefully out of bed the following morning.

I certainly hope all the ladies had a lovely Valentine’s day. My daughter received some really cute cards from her sweetie, my dog Bobe even received a Valentine from a secret admirer in Chicago and got what the little boy shot at.

Well, you know how it is with big business tycoons, busy, busy, busy. All those important questions to be answered: “Who’s play it?” “What’s trump?” “Whose deal is it?”

Thank you

Tuesday night, Feb. 15, the Bluebirds journeyed to St. Anne for a nonconference game against the home team, the Cardinals. Things started slowly for the home town boys as they received only 6% of the shots early in the game. The Cards dominated the boards as they pumped in a 22-15 advantage. The second half the Bluebirds shot improved and the defense caused 11 more problems as the Bluebirds cut the Cardinal lead to 21 points in the third quarter. The last quarter was the biggest for the Bulldogs as they gained through 38 points to put the 66-34 victory. One of the best ideas for improving the present legislative process is to create a committee from each of the major political parties to work on legislation from both sides of the aisle. By making the committee members bi-partisan, the chances of getting a bill passed will increase. If the number of bills introduced in the General Assembly is cut in half, the time spent on each bill will increase. This will allow more thorough consideration and a better chance for meaningful legislation to be passed. As the number of bills decreases, so will the cost to the state.
Freeze and drought means mixed bag for consumer

Weather effects of freeze and drought on food supplies, costs and consumer at the checkout counter in the next few months...

Concerned about the freeze-drought problem are many farmers and consumers, the Illinois Farm Bureau has just completed a survey to look at food prices in the months to come. While weather problems continue to affect the country, there are several food programs and activities which will help to reduce the effects of freeze and drought.

According to the survey, about 30 percent of the companies surveyed have increased their shipping costs and are passing on the increased costs to consumers. The survey also found that lower temperature and higher costs are likely to continue in the months to come.

Many companies have also cut back on their production in response to the freeze and drought. For example, the Illinois Department of Agriculture reported that the number of beef cattle in the state decreased by 15 percent in the past year.

The drought has also affected the production of corn and soybeans, which are major crops in Illinois. According to the Illinois Farm Bureau, the yield of corn is expected to be down by 10 percent and soybean yields are down by 20 percent this year.

Consumer impact

The freeze and drought are having a significant impact on consumers. Food prices have increased, and many consumers are facing financial strain. The survey found that about 40 percent of consumers have cut back on their food purchases in response to the higher food costs.

Drought-related problems

The drought has also affected the water supply in Illinois, with many communities facing water shortages. The Illinois Department of Natural Resources reported that water usage in the state is up by 20 percent this year.

In conclusion, the freeze and drought have had a significant impact on both farmers and consumers in Illinois. The Illinois Farm Bureau has just completed a survey to look at food prices in the months to come, and the results show that there are several food programs and activities which will help to reduce the effects of freeze and drought.

Just 1 inch of quality insulating material insulates as well as a concrete wall 46 inches thick

Consider how thick a brick or stone wall would have to be if the equivalent depth of regular insulation we recommend for the walls of homes, between the minimum of six inches suggested for vegetables.

Most owners could save at least a third on heating costs and half on cooling costs with the efficient, affordable, durable, and versatile new products. Heating, insurance and shading of windows and weather stripping.

Additional insulation requires an initial investment of relatively low cost, but long-term savings in energy costs. While additional insulation will not, in itself, provide a short time and pay good dividends from then on in reduced heating and cooling costs.

We have information which will help you determine the type and amount of insulation needed and the cost of installing it. Please do not hesitate to call our office for this information.

We're serious about wanting you to get the most for your money. Please contact us for a call.
